

ANXIOUS TO AD COUNTY

Fire Commissioners Anxious to Get the Law Amended.

VIEWS OF CITY ATTORNEY

He Holds That Under the Present Law
the Fire Department Cannot Assist in Extinguishing Fire in the County.

It developed at a meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners last night that no disposition on their part is felt to deprive those residents in the county of protection against loss by fire, and the department will continue to fight such blazes in Henrico as may endanger the property located in Richmond. In the meantime City Attorney Pollard will appear before the General Assembly and endeavor to have enacted a law authorizing the firemen, in their discretion, to exert their effort to extinguish conflagrations in the county.

So it may be seen that the much-talked-of and dreadfully feared disposition on the part of the board to allow the houses, manufacturing plants and places of business located outside the city to be ravaged by the fire fiend is not well founded; although Mr. Pollard has given it as his opinion that legally the fire department has not the right to respond and work upon blazes situated beyond the city limits.

MR. POLLARD'S VIEWS.
Mr. Pollard was present at the meeting last night, and reiterated practically what he had informed the board in a written opinion regarding the legality of the department's responding to fires in the county. In effect this was that the costly fire apparatus and the well-paid firemen should not and could not go beyond the domain of Richmond to quench a blaze, except for the personal liability of the fire commissioners.

For the time being, at least, the much mooted problem is settled, and until the Legislature either compels with the request of the board or refuses to enact such a law as requested, the department will, by common consent, continue to protect property in the county, provided the conflagrations assumed such proportions as to threaten the city.

Under the head of routine business, the board attempted to place the responsibility for the accident at Third and Broad Streets, in which a horse wagon was more or less injured by collision with a trolley car, but the effort resulted in the car company being requested to establish fire crossings at the intersections of Third and Broad Streets, where their tracks are crossed by Third. This is regarded as important, as the thoroughfares furnished one of the chief routes in the city for the fire department. The decision of the company will be waited with interest by the commissioners.

BAZAAR BUILDING.
Permission was granted the Randolph Street Baptist Church to erect a temporary frame building at Main and Pine Streets, in which it is proposed to hold a bazaar.

It was ordered that a street fire alarm station be placed at the corner of Fourth and Franklin Streets, and that the private fire alarm station now in the Academy of Music (No. 8) be made a street station, and placed on the corner of Eighth and Franklin Streets.

The following substitutes were elected on probation:
A. C. Rieger to Engine Company No. 9, and B. H. Madison to Truck Company No. 2.

DAILY STEAMER

Movement to Resume Service Between West Point and Baltimore.

Mr. Reuben Foster, president of the York River Line, returned to Baltimore yesterday, after a visit of several days to Richmond, during which time he has been perfecting arrangements for a resumption of the daily boat service between West Point and Baltimore, via his route. He was in conference with Captain Westbury, of the Southern, upon a number of occasions.
It is the purpose of the York River Line to put a line of service between Baltimore and West Point, in dry-dock all winter undergoing repairs. It is said they are now in first-class shape and will compare favorably with the best that is afloat.

During the winter months the York River Line has operated a tri-weekly schedule, but with the inauguration of the daily service this summer it is probable that in future years it will be maintained at all seasons. The traveling public, many of whom favor the river route, are anxious to see such the case, and President Foster has it under consideration. Much will depend upon the patronage shown this summer.

MORE GUNS FOR STATE

Soldier Boys to Have Better
Equipment Than Ever.

THE GOVERNOR SEEKING IT

Is in Washington to Have New Federal Law Applied to Virginia at Once.
Munitions of War Valued at Thousands
Coming This Way.

The Virginia militia is to have from the national government greatly increased munitions of war, and that is the mission of Governor Montague to Washington at this time. His Excellency went to the national capital Thursday afternoon ostensibly to assist Judge Dew, Second Auditor, in getting even with Uncle Sam on a claim that has stood open since the war of 1812, when Virginia lent him money. But Virginia also owed him a bill, and the two accounts have been facing each other ever since. But the Virginia Executive wished to go to the Ordnance Department and start to moving Virginia's share of the increased munitions granted to all the States for the national guard by a recent enactment of Congress.

Adjutant-General Nalle states that the Virginia militia is better equipped than that of many States in the Union. It is estimated that the increase which the State will get under the law which the Governor is seeking to have applied to Virginia at once will equal one-third of what she now possesses. This will put the militia on an excellent footing, and will make its efficiency a matter worthy of pride. The State has but two regiments, but these are in excellent condition and are maintained up to a high standard. It has been the policy of the present administration of the militia to drop companies where they are not measuring up to the desired standard. The new equipment means placing in the hands of the militia the best of the present administration of the militia to drop companies where they are not measuring up to the desired standard.
